

EDUCATOR KNOWLEDGE OF READING RESEARCH OPPORTUNITY

What Is the Project About?

We are researching what educators across North America know about reading and reading instruction. To help us do so, we are developing a test that measures educators' knowledge of reading and reading instruction! And we need your help because we need educators who serve in different roles to complete our measure. So, we are reaching out to schools and districts to collaborate and to serve as sites for norming the test.

What Will Your School/District Need to Do?

Provide us a list with emails and roles for a cross-section of educators (e.g. Teachers, Instructional Coaches, School Psychologists or Diagnosticians, Administrators, etc.). All information is kept confidential!

We will work with you to customize some of the background items to best fit your group. Then, each educator will be sent a personal link to the reading knowledge survey via email.

The entire survey takes approximately 60-90 minutes to complete. It can be taken all at once or over multiple sessions.

What Are the Benefits?

Individuals: Each individual receives an email summary of personal results on the knowledge measure.

Sites (i.e., schools or districts): Each site receives a report with an overall snapshot of their group's prior training, perceptions of knowledge and practice and performance on the knowledge test. Sites can use this report to guide staff development.

Your help contributes to our understanding of reading and reading instruction!

To find out how your school or district can become a norming site contact:

Dr. Tim Odegard | tim.odegard@mtsu.edu
Dr. Emily Farris | emily.farris@mtsu.edu

Tennessee Center for the Study and Treatment of Dyslexia

MIDDLE TENNESSEE STATE UNIVERSITY